

STATE DISABILITY INSURANCE PROGRAM

As a worker-funded program, the State Disability Insurance (SDI) program contributes to the economic security of California by providing affordable benefits to eligible workers. The Disability Insurance (DI) program provides benefits to workers who are unable to work due to non work-related illness, injury, or pregnancy. Although work-connected disabilities are covered by Workers' Compensation laws, DI benefits may also be paid for work-related illnesses or injuries under certain circumstances prescribed by law.

When an insured employee is entitled to temporary or permanent disability, Workers' Compensation benefits, or a maintenance allowance at a rate less than the daily DI benefit amount, he/she may be entitled to DI benefits.

Background

Disability insurance was added to the California Unemployment Insurance Code in 1946. California, Rhode Island, New Jersey, New York, Hawaii, plus the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, are the only states that provide disability insurance for their work force. California has become a model in DI implementation and a pioneer in innovative procedures. California was:

- The first state to authorize voluntary plans for disability insurance coverage.
- The first state to provide SDI coverage for agricultural workers.
- The first state to give self-employed persons coverage on an elective basis.
- The first state to provide benefits to clients recovering from alcohol dependency or drug-induced illnesses while in residence in authorized recovery facilities. (Maximum coverage is 90 days.)
- The first state to offer paid family leave to persons caring for seriously ill family members or bonding with new children.

Who is Covered by SDI?

Approximately 12.6 million California workers are covered by the SDI program. The law requires coverage for employees working for employers with payrolls in excess of $100 in a calendar quarter. There are a few exceptions. Those specifically excluded are:

- Some domestic workers.
- Some governmental employees.
- Employees of interstate railroads.
- Employees of some nonprofit agencies.
- Individuals claiming a religious exemption.

Some workers who are not required to participate but may elect SDI coverage include:

- Individuals who are employers (sole proprietorships and partnerships).
- Self-employed persons. (See the Disability Insurance Elective Coverage Fact Sheet, DE 8714CC.)
- Individuals in otherwise excluded family employment.
- Out-of-state entities of California employers.
- Some governmental employees.

State Plan

The California DI program has both a State Plan and Voluntary Plans. State Plan coverage is mandatory for insured employees unless an employer, with the consent of his/her employees, chooses Voluntary Plan coverage. Administered by the Employment Development Department (EDD), the State Plan is financed entirely by California workers through a payroll tax on their earnings.

Taxes collected go into the Disability Fund and may be used only for payment of DI or Paid Family Leave (PFL) benefits and SDI program administration.

Voluntary Plan

A Voluntary Plan is a private plan approved by the Director of the State Employment Development Department. It may be substituted for the State Plan if the Voluntary Plan matches the State Plan's benefits, provides at least one greater benefit, and costs the employee no more than the State Plan.

About 3.9 percent of California's workers covered by SDI are covered through Voluntary Plans.

Employers and employee groups may establish Voluntary Plans with mutual consent of the employer and a majority of the employees. An employee may choose State Plan coverage even though a Voluntary Plan is available where he/she works.

Eligibility and Benefits

The DI benefits are payable when a covered employee suffers a wage loss and cannot work due to pregnancy or illness/injury not related to his/her job. Benefits are payable for a maximum of 52 weeks.

To receive benefit payments, a person must:

- File a claim in accordance with regulations.
- Serve a 7-day nonpayable waiting period.
- Have been paid at least $300 in wages, subject to SDI taxes, during the 12-month base period of the claim.
- Submit to a reasonable medical examination, if required.
- File a certificate of disability signed by a duly authorized medical or religious practitioner.

Claims are filed by mail and benefits are generally paid every two weeks.

Disqualifications

The SDI program is committed to program integrity and will take all possible measures to detect and deter fraud and protect benefits. No SDI payments can be made to persons who willfully make false statements or withhold material facts to gain benefits.

An individual is also ineligible for disability benefits:

- When receiving Unemployment Insurance or PFL payments.
- When receiving full wages (benefit payments and wages added together are limited to the total weekly wage, excluding overtime pay, immediately prior to the disability).
- When in legal custody as a result of a conviction or when confined by a court order.
- If religious exemption from SDI taxes has been filed.
- If the individual is no longer in the labor market.
- When receiving Workers' Compensation at a weekly rate equal to or greater than the SDI rate.

Appeals

All participants have the right to appeal to an impartial Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) concerning determinations of eligibility or benefit amounts. Further appeal from an ALJ's decision may be filed with the Unemployment Insurance Appeals Board, or the Board may set aside the ALJ's decision on its own motion. Decisions of the Board may be reviewed by the courts.

Social Security

If a person is permanently disabled, he or she should contact the Social Security Administration for information about benefits under its programs. For additional information, call the Social Security Administration at 1-800-772-1213.

State Government Employees

State government employees, through a negotiated agreement between the State of California and a recognized employee organization, may elect to be covered by SDI. For information about SDI for State Employees, call 1-866-352-7675.

The EDD administers a separate Non-Industrial Disability Insurance (NDI) program for those State employees not covered by State Disability Insurance. For information about NDI, call 1-866-758-9768.

Paid Family Leave

Persons covered by State Disability Insurance are also automatically covered by PFL insurance. PFL benefits are available to persons who take time off work to care for a seriously ill child, spouse, parent, or domestic partner or to bond with a new child. (Please see the Paid Family Leave Fact Sheet, DE 8714CF, for further information.)
